

International Society of Nephrology – World Congress of Nephrology 2019

I would like to thank the Australian and New Zealand Society of Nephrology for the travel grant to attend the World Congress of Nephrology, 2019, in Melbourne, Australia. This conference was a great experience to network with my Brisbane and Melbourne based colleagues and receive feed back on my research into geographical foci of chronic kidney disease with no identified cause. It was also good to hear about outside perspectives to solve issues in nephrology. A final highlight of the conference was the dingos and the stereotypical Australian performers roaming the conference.
