The Department of Renal Medicine at St. George hospital is seeking a full-time nephrologist. This position has become vacant due to the retirement of a staff specialist in the Unit.

The successful applicant will be appointed to the South Eastern Sydney LHD, Central Hospital Network (St George and Sutherland Hospitals) within the St George and Sutherland Renal Unit. This unit provides service for all renal disorders to a community of approximately 480,000 people, including CKD, renal transplantation (chronic management), all dialysis modalities, renal supportive care, extensive outpatient and inpatient consultative services with a particular emphasis on hypertension, and management of hypertensive and renal disorders of pregnancy.

All members of this Unit are expected to participate in undergraduate and postgraduate teaching.

The appointee may be offered a conjoint appointment at an appropriate level in the School of Medicine within the Faculty of Medicine at the University of New South Wales, commensurate with qualifications, experience, teaching and research milestones and publications. No remuneration is attached to the University appointment.

Salary and conditions are in accordance with the Senior Medical Practitioners (State) Award with limited rights of private practice.
